RASMUSSEN NAMED SOFTWARE DEVELOPER FOR CERTIFIED RESTORATION DRYCLEANING NETWORK

ANN ARBOR, MI, April 25, 2005 --- Aimee Rasmussen has been named Software Developer for the Certified Restoration Drycleaning Network (CRDN), an international organization of highly trained drycleaners specializing in insurance restoration drycleaning services.

Prior to joining CRDN, Rasmussen was a Systems Engineer with General Motors. She also spent three years in software development with H&R Block Financial Advisors.

In her new position, Rasmussen is responsible for the ongoing development and implementation of RestorNet, the organization's propriety Internet-based information and pricing tracking system. She also assists with software training and end-user support.

"The expansion of our IT team creates a tremendous advantage for our organization as we increase our reliance on technology in all aspects of our business," said Wayne Wudyka, CRDN's CEO. "The addition of Aimee will enable our staff to specialize in key areas while efficiently meeting the needs of our partners in the U.S., Canada and U.K.," Wudyka added.
